Anglican Mission Organisations Directory

The purpose of this directory is to make more publicly available information about the various Anglican and Anglican-related, mission and development organisations, both voluntary and provincial, within the Churches of the Communion. The information gathered is the name, address, telephone, fax and e-mail of each Organisation, plus some description of their ministry.

The mission organisations included in the directory are organisations that fit the following criteria:

Criteria:

- Roots in Anglicanism
- Movement of people across a nation or between nations
- Working towards significant bonds of attachment between peoples
- Recognised by the local Episcopal authority
- The diocese as the smallest level of base organisation, ie not parish based.
- Usually a higher level of organisation than the diocese, ie Provincial based

Description of Organisation

The New Zealand Church Missionary Society grew out of the work of the Church Missionary Society which began its ministry amongst Maori in Aotearoa-New Zealand in 1814. The NZ Church Missionary Association (1892) and later NZCMS (1916) moved the focus from mission in New Zealand to overseas. In 2000 NZCMS merged with the South American Missionary Society NZ. NZCMS works in co-operation with the New Zealand Board of Missions, the latter providing a significant part of the funding for mission partners.

Programmes and Events

The primary purpose of the Society is to send long-term mission partners overseas and where possible to work in partnership with the local church. In some cases mission partners are seconded to specialist agencies such as Wycliffe/SIL or are serving in a tent-making role. There is a growing number of short-termers. The majority of the latter spend two years overseas and at the completion of a term some apply to become full mission partners of the Society. The Society also has associate mission partners, that is those whose primary allegiance is with another agency but wish to keep a connection with NZCMS and the Anglican Church in New Zealand. The Society allocates 5% of its overseas budget to the support of nationals both as students and as teachers in Bible schools. At present it supports seven students and one teaching position.

Description of Organisation

The Mission to Seafarers (MTS) is the Anglican Church working for the practical spiritual welfare of all races and creeds in ports throughout the world. Through a network of chaplains, lay staff and volunteers, it provides a welcome and friendship in over 300 ports around the world, helping seafarers in unfamiliar surroundings to overcome difficulties of language and culture; helps and counsels seafarers in need, in times of crisis and or in cases of injustice. We link seafarers with parish and clergy, extend support to their families; work closely with other denominations, showing seafarers that Christians are united in concern for their well being; support Christians who have to live out their faith in isolation and share faith through word and sacrament.

Programmes and Events

The work of Mission to Seafarers is carried out in the various clubs/stations serving some 27 ports around Australia. There is a biannual conference for Chaplains and Council. The Mission to Seafarers have two liaison Bishops, working in Eastern Australia and Central and Western Australia. The main activity is the ministry offered to visiting Seafarers. There is approximately 15 stipend chaplains and a large body of honorary chaplains and volunteers.

Description of Organisation

The Church Army in Canada is an Evangelistic Society in the Anglican Communion dedicated to bringing people from all walks of life into a living faith in Jesus Christ. Church Army in Canada began in 1929. A large percentage of commissioned officers have been ordained over the years, with a significant number also moving into other forms of missionary outreach (such as Overseas Missionary Fellowship).

Programmes and Events

Church Army has a three-fold ministry focus (Y.E.S.): Youth Work, Evangelistic Endeavours, Services of Compassion. Through our training facility, Taylor College of Evangelism in Saint John NB, a 3-year commissioning program is operated. Upon successful completion of the program, the newly commissioned officers are posted to serve in one of those three areas of focus. Their posts can send them across the country of Canada or return them to other nations from where they have been sent for training. This has most recently included Jamaica and the Windward Islands. In addition, students and officers from other countries have served with Church Army Canada.

Description of Organisation

Christian Aid was founded in 1945 and established by the British Council of Churches as a way of financing aid, development and relief programmes for the world's neediest people. At present, Christian Aid is the official agency of 40 British and Irish Churches. It works where the need is greatest, regardless of race or religious beliefs, in more than 60 countries. It is supported by individuals of many faiths and of none. Christian Aid does not run its own programmes overseas but works through those of local churches and other organisations which alleviate poverty and help poor people to find their own solutions. It is committed to tackling the root causes of poverty and as a result spends up to 10 per cent of its income on education and campaigning in the UK and Ireland

Programmes and Events

Christian Aid works primarily through regional and local organisations in the developing world. Areas of interest include relief, resettlement, agriculture, community development, food security, health, water resources, development education and popular campaigning. Description of Organisation

CMJ's three aims:

Evangelism - Our prime concern has always been to bring the Good News of Jesus the Messiah to Jewish people. Sensitive and informed evangelism.

England

Encouragement - Supporting and encouraging Jewish people who have come to faith in Jesus is a strong commitment of our ministry. We are involved with individuals, families and Messianic congregations.

Education - Our third aim is to help congregations and individual Christians to rediscover the Jewish roots of the Christian faith. The fight against anti-Semitism is very much part of this ministry.

Programmes and Events

CMJ is one of the largest Christian societies ministering to people in Israel. Our most visited centre is Christ Church in Jerusalem, the oldest Protestant Church in the Middle East. Also a guest house, a coffee shop and a Christian bookshop.

Christ Church runs Shoreside Tours, a study tour of Israel for a deeper understanding of the Scriptures. The guides are normally Jewish believers. The Anglican School in Jerusalem is also part of CMJ's ministry; Christian values and beliefs are at the heart of the education the School offers.

Description of Organisation

CMS see itself as a community of mission service. Founded in 1799, CMS is an Anglican mission agency of the churches in Britain, that is committed to a holistic understanding and practice of mission. It has a strong emphasis on the centrality of evangelism, taking seriously the issues of justice, peace and reconciliation. Today's mission partners serve in a wide range of posts. They go at the invitation of the Churches within the Anglican Communion, of United Churches and of ecumenical interdenominational agencies. While affirming the principle that mission is the

Description of Organisation

The Mission to Seafarers was founded in 1856 as the Missions to Seamen and combines a ministry of practical help with word and sacrament. The society's fulltime chaplains work in over 100 ports and part time Chaplains in a further 200 ports, showing God's love for seafarers who are away from their homes and families, by visiting ships, offering them a welcome at our centres, listening to their stories and problems, and giving spiritual and practical help. Through our centres, some run with other denominations, the seafarers welcome the opportunity to relax, meet people other than fellow crew members, worship with other Christians, enjoy some recreation and use email, telephone and postal facilities to keep in touch with their families. Chaplains help individual seafarers or crews with work-related problems, such as non-payment of wages, unsafe or unsatisfactory conditions or those being denied their human dignity. They speak out for justice and work with owners, managers and others who want to see such practices eradicated.

Programmes and Events

- Appointing and funding chaplains to serve in various parts of the world in partnership with provinces of the Anglican Communion.
- Training in the ministry to seafarers for those appointed locally.

Description of Organisation

PNG Church Partnership was founded as the New Guinea Mission in 1891, to support the Church in PNG - in prayer, by raising money and by sending staff - mostly for teaching and training posts these days. In 1977 the Anglican Church of Papua New Guinea was inaugurated as an autonomous Province of the Anglican Communion, with five dioceses - and the mission changed its name to be more descriptive of the work, and future relationship.

Programmes and Events

- Supports the general budget of the Province, priorities of which are decided by Provincial Council
- Raises money for provincially approved projects and appeals including natural disasters
- Responds to provincial request for staff by reciting (ecumenically) for Governmentally approved training posts in the field of education, health and administration
- Supports PNG Anglican undertaking further studies in the UK
- Encourages short term exchange visits by Papua New Guineans to the UK and by young people to PNG, eg Gap Year students/Medical Electives.
- Holds an annual Day Conference for supporters jointly with other agencies
- Raises awareness by producing display material, newsletters and leaflets providing speakers with appropriate experience.

Founded in 1701, as the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel to Foreign Parts, USPG is one of the oldest Anglican mission agencies. In 1965 it merged with The Universities Mission to Central Africa, founded as the result of David Livingstone's sermon to Cambridge University and with the Cambridge Mission to Delhi founded in 1877 to engage in dialogue with India's historic religions. USPG's Vision statement is 'to see God's reconciling love for creation as shown in Christ, brought to life in all people in all places.' USPG actively encourages the interest and support of individual church members and parishes, both in prayer and giving. And through LINKS, USPG Friends in Action, is establishing a worldwide network of interested supporters to encourage a wider understanding of world mission today. USPG also welcomes enquiries from those interested in serving the world church and encourages the church to foster vocations to such service today. Description of Organisation

Indian Missionary Society (IMS) the first indigenous missionary movement in India was founded by the Rt Revd VS Azariah in the year 1903. It has a mission to reach the unreached people who live in abject poverty and absolute ignorance in the central tribal belt of India. It is being undertaken wholly by the Indian men, money and management since its inception.

Winning souls for Jesus Christ through education, hostels for the tribal children, medical assistance, meeting tribal people in their respective villages with the Gospel literacy programme, church planting and so on, is our aim.

Programmes and Events

IMS is purely faith mission entirely depending upon the support received from the established Church of India. Their missionaries have short term training courses on leadership and theology, in order that they can be exposed to new ideas and be effective instruments in God's vineyard.

The 'Missionary Intelligencer' is an official organ of IMS carrying the missionary field news and is being widely circulated in India, informing people of the missionary activities of IMS and be motivated to mobilise intensive prayer for God's mission.

Centenary Vision: to preach the gospel in 21 states by 2003, to send 1050 missionaries to establish new dioceses and form prayer cells.

Description of Organisation

The mission of AFM is to see churches planted among the 25 largest and least evangelised people groups in the world. They work with all other missionaries and agencies working in these areas and make the fullest use of new technology and research.

They also bring to the attention of the church the 20 % of the world that the church has neglected. AFM seeks to give a greater emphasis on research, planning, and deployment for these people, most of whom live outside the borders of the Anglican dioceses.

Programmes and Events

AFM mobilise other parts of the Anglican Communion for work among the least evangelised. The US office of AFM is assisting several dioceses in Nigeria to form their own branch of Anglican Frontier Missions and are in the early stages in the same for East Africa and South Asia. These AFM branches in other parts of the Anglican Communion work independently in their own way.

The training, the research, the team members, and the development and implementation of strategies all have the flavour of the world wide Body of Christ. The churches that are planted will not necessarily be Anglican.

Description of Organisation

Trinity Grants Program was established in 1971 to reach out across the communion to assist people to help themselves. It is a ministry of the Parish of Trinity Church, works in partnership with the Anglican churches and ecumenical consortiums, primarily in Africa. The professional staff investigates and evaluates requests for funding; make recommendations for funding to the Grants Board that meets four times a year; and monitors the conduct of the grant. At the end of the grant time frame, staff evaluates results for a formal report to the Board.
